NOTICE TO FAMILIES

As a licensed professional who works with children, Susan Hill is a mandated reporter under Pennsylvania's Child Protective Services Law (23 Pa.C.S. Chapter 63).

This means that if, in the course of providing services, she has reasonable cause to suspect that a child is the victim of abuse or neglect, she is required by law to make a report to ChildLine, Pennsylvania's child abuse reporting system. This is a legal obligation that applies regardless of confidentiality, and it cannot be waived by any agreement.

This duty exists to protect children. It is shared by teachers, school staff, medical professionals, and licensed practitioners across Pennsylvania, and it is part of the professional standards under which Hill Education Services operates. In all other respects, information about your child and family remains confidential as described in the Consent for Services.

Susan maintains current Pennsylvania child-abuse, state police, and FBI clearances, and is glad to make copies available to families on request.
